“ Angie was my best friend from 2nd through 9th grade. She will be missed so much! I always loved spending time with her at her house where her dad would take us out on the lake to swim and me try to ski. She had Strawberry shortcake dolls and would always share. Absolutely the kindest person I have ever met, from the first time I met her! I am going to miss you girl!

“ In high school, Angie was to bake a cake for a class assignment. She didn't want a boring sheet cake she picked out a 4 layer strawberry something cake....from scratch! With delight and satisfaction layers were built and as the the last decorated creamcheese swirl icing was applied, standing back to admire the accomplishment....slowly it started to lean, then slide! No problem...a bamboo skewer was hastily inserted after a straighten of layers and ready for presentation! Angie didn't shy from a difficult recipe and as in life, she fixed it when things started leaning when she could. I'm sure the cake was enjoyed at school!
