“ Doyle and Mildred were my second family. I probably spent more time at skyline ranch than I did at my own home. The memories I have are some of the best. Doyle was loved and respected by so many. And how could you not.

Doyle when you get to your final destination give Dad a hug for me, and

Jump on Wampum and ride like hell❤️

Love you Doyle

“ Doyle was not my friend. He was my family, not by blood but by choice, he was my shoulder when I needed to talk or cry, he was an entertainer when I needed to laugh, he was my pa, and he was my teacher. Pa taught me so much about life, horses, and people, he taught me everything through the stories that he would tell, and let me tell you no one could tell a story the way he could. I use to live sitting down in the barn all day just listening to him tell me about his old cowboy days, the days of riding with his son Eddie, stories about his wife Milly and all his kids he could make me laugh, and cry all at once. I loved listening to him talk of his rodeo days, cake drives he would go on, canning out on the ground with only a saddle his pillow under a blanket of stars. He talked about his much he loved his family. This world was a much better place for having him in it. Life will not be the same without him. Pa was and always will be the greatest cowboy I've ever had the pleasure and Honor of knowing. He was loved deeply and will be missed dearly.
