In the spring of 1951, Olvis escorted a young music teacher and her students from Lexington Schools, to a field trip in Oklahoma City. This was the beginning of a lifetime relationship, and on December 20, 1952, at the First Baptist Church in Lexington, Olvis married the love of his life, Miss Donelda Butler. They made their home in Lexington for the remainder of that school year before settling in Norman, where Olvis was attending the University of Oklahoma. They made their home in Norman for a few years, and in 1962, Olvis convinced Donelda it was time to purchase some farm land northeast of Lexington. They later purchased another farm from his sister, 2 miles east of Lexington. Together they raised 7 children; sons, Darrell, Kenneth and Michael and daughters, Janet, Patricia, Luetta and Marlana. Olvis retired from Communications at Tinker in 1993. He
